Bryan's ability, and said that he expected to see him nominated by the unanimous vote of the convention.

"Those so-called Democrats, such as the Whitners and Bolmonis, and other wealthy money-getters, who supported McKintey before, will do so again," said the senator. Fut all the money in the country cannot defeat Bryan's nomination, and when nominated he will receive the support of all of the eliver and reform forces."

When asked for his views on expansion, the senator replied: "I don't know what it means." He said that he had been trying to find out what was meant by expansion, but as yet he had not succeeded. "If it means commerthis all right, and I am in favor of it, but if it means political expansion, that is another question. If it is necessary to uphold the expansion by a military government such as we have in the Philippines, or by a government from Washington, then I am opposed to it. I was opposed to returning the islands to Spain or giving them to another power but I think we ought to give these people local self-government. All we ought to do for them is to protect them from foreign intervention."

Senator Teller drafted the fourth resolution passed by the senate in reference to Cuba, in which it is declared that the war with Spain was not a war for conquest, but was to relieve Cuba and pacify the islands, and then urn them over to the people for self-government. Mr. Teller is of the opinion that this should be made to apply to the Philippines, and he said that it would have been so if they had thought of it at the time.

What do you think the intentions of the administration are with respect to these islands?" he was asked.

The Lord knows what their object is," he answered. "I can't tell. No one seems to know. The administration has had no policy so far as I know, and if it has had one the latest news seems to hadicate that it has not been successful. It looks as though we were to have a long and tedious controversy with the Philippine islanders, as they are a fighting people."

Speaking of the local situation, the senator said that the fight for silver should be kept up, and that it was a misfortune for the cause that ex-Senator Frank Cannon, whom he considered manifestation for the cause that ex-Senator Frank Cannon, whom he considered manifestation for the matter settled amirably in a few days. He is of the opinion that it will be settled as soon as the supreme court of the state passes on the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than pour law, which will not be more than the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than the constitutionality of the cight-pour law, which will not be more than the was absent the care of drunkenness.
